Ene land's Royal Navy has been a potent factor. If day ing the last fifty years our colony has advanced its population, if it has extended the scope of its nommerce and increased its wealth, it must be admitted that a sense of security, angendered by the presence of Her Majesty's Fleet, has tended to this success. Member as you are of an honourable and distinguished profession, it could not but have been conconial to your mind if, during your command in child China, you had experienced more stirring operations than it has been your lot to know. Fortunately, however, during that period our relations with other great Powers have been pacific, and in these waters at least, the watchward has been Peace. Yet none the less do we acknowledge the grave responsibi-lities that at all times attach thomselves to the ties dema ded your at ention, the interests of one combinative a d of British subjects the ugh at the Far Eas would have teen, under your guidence, as offic ently exleguarded as they have be u in the part.
